Comments:

- The school uniform is a good idea. It saves time and money in the long term. Everyone is dressed the same.
- Thanks for the infant tracksuit. It is developmentally appropriate.
- I would prefer uniforms to be worn for infants also
- If the uniform was the tracksuit only, it is more likely the children would adhere to the policy and would be easier to manage at home.
- I'd prefer if the tracksuit could be worn every day. The tie should be done away with. It is unnecessary and impractical for children.
- I'd be happy if the quality was better. The present one fades quickly. A cheaper one might last as long.
- Is the tracksuit cheaper if the crest is sewn on?
- If sew on is cheaper, it could be transferred from old to new but if there's no change in price, stick with what we have.
- Children should be allowed wear their tracksuit every day as it encourages them to be active. Girls are very restricted with skirts and shoes.
- It is my opinion that the school tracksuit is the most practical option for children especially as they play sports most days – not just on days when they have P.E. I would like if there was an option for children to wear their tracksuits daily.
- The tracksuit should be v-neck as the round neck is tight and would look nicer with the polo shirt. The uniform jumper should have a crest.
- The tracksuit should be the uniform. It is more comfortable and more practical for the children.
